

ON THE BORDER

An Exclusive Report on North Korean Refugees

FEBRUARY 23, 2012, 6-8:30pm

AURORA HISTORY MUSEUM

FREE

"On the Border" is a documentary produced by South Korean media outlet The Chosun Ilbo about the plight of North Korean refugees along the shared border with China and also covers issues of famine, human trafficking of North Korean women, and drug dealing by the North Korean Army.

"On the Border" has been broadcast on various international media outlets such as the BBC and PBS. It is the winner of numerous awards including the 2008 Sony Impact Award from the Rory Peck Trust and a Special Recognition from the International Parliamentarians' Coalition for the North Korean Refugees' Human Rights.

The film begins at 6pm followed by a Q&A opportunity with a North Korean refugee living in the United States and a small reception. Seating is limited so come early.

Not recommended for children.

"On the Border" is shown in partnership with the Aurora History Museum and the Aurora Asian/Pacific Community Partnership.
