

Conference on Religion, Human Trafficking, and Modern Slavery
March 31 – April 2, 2011
Denver, Colorado

Sponsored by the University of Denver/Iliff School of Theology Joint PhD Program in partnership with the Office of Special Community Programs and the Human Trafficking Clinic

Conference Plenary Speaker / Friday, April 1, 2011
7 p.m. (Location TBA)

“The 21st Century Abolitionist Movement: Why and How Faith Communities Will Lead the Way”

*Dr. David Batstone,
University of San Francisco*

Dr. David Batstone is president and co-founder of the Not For Sale Campaign, a movement to end modern-day slavery, and Right Reality, an international social venture firm. Attendance at this lecture requires conference registration. To register for the conference and this lecture, visit: <http://www.denverconference.net>

Special Marsico Lecture*
Thursday, March 31, 2011
7 p.m.
Lindsay Auditorium, Sturm Hall

"Toward a New Abolitionist Movement: Historical Slavery, Contemporary Slavery, and the Religious Imagination"

*James Stewart
Macalester College*

Professor Stewart taught history at Macalester for four decades, where he also served as Director of the Andrew W. Mellon Undergraduate Seminar in Early American History from 2005-2010 and director of the Latin American Studies Program, 2000-2007. The lecture is free and open to the public. To register for this lecture, please visit: Religion and Human Trafficking Community Lecture. Persons with disabilities needing accommodations should contact Special Community Programs at (303) 871-2360 or scp@du.edu.

*The lecture is underwritten by the Marsico Visiting Scholars Fund.